

Short-term consultant positions (M/F)

Epicentre recruits epidemiologists on a regular basis to conduct short-term consultancies (3 to 5 weeks average duration) in Epicentre's areas of expertise.

These include:

- Rapid health assessments in emergency situations
- Epidemic outbreak investigations
- Evaluation of health programs and health needs
- Implementation and evaluation of epidemiological surveillance programs
- Prevalence surveys
- Training activities in public health and epidemiology

For such positions, Epicentre will consider candidates with the following qualifications:

- Medical Doctor
- University degree in public health and epidemiology (MPH, MSc, or equivalent)
- At least 3 years of public health experience in developing countries
- Good communication skills, particularly in writing
- Proven capacity to adapt to difficult field conditions and work autonomously
- Availability at short-term notice

On an exceptional basis, Epicentre may recruit candidates with other qualifications, such as nurses or lab technicians, to work on specific projects. Candidates with a strong epidemiological background and field experience are encouraged to apply.

You can apply online. Should you have any questions on the possible assignments please do not hesitate to contact Dr Klaudia Porten (Head of Field Epidemiology /Training Departement) at klaudia.porten@epicentre.msf.org